UPLAND TRUSTEES

Interest Expressed In Program

The Upland School District Board of Trustees expressed interest and probable approval of a request for the district to participate in the Ontario Safety Council's proposed Safety Town but delayed formal approval Tuesday night until the full board can be present. Two trustees are on vacation.

Ontario City Engineer Ivan Tennant explained that the 2 1/2 acre Safety Town will be used to educate youngsters in virtually all types of traffic safety.

Tennant said the Ontario Safety Council is seeking a $100,000 grant from the federal government for the construction of the project. He said the Ontario Safety Council has received assurances that the grant will probably be approved but he noted that the federal government wants the facility to be as widely used as possible.

Tennant said schools can bring their students to the facility to learn about all of the possible safety hazards that could be encountered. Bicycles will be available for training. He said the plans call for Safety Town to be operated as a park on weekends.

The City Engineer said the Ontario-Montclair School District and City of Montclair have been enthusiastic about the project and asked if the Upland School District is interested in participating, both financially and in the training. He said the cost to the district would be 10 cents per pupil for maintenance. He said the Safety Council hopes to have the facility ready by the fall of 1973.

Chairman William S. Rugg asked if the 10 cents was for one visit and Tennant said the maintenance costs would be the same no matter how many times the students visited the facility. Tennant said each city's police department would put on its own safety program at Safety Town as the departments are doing in the schools now.

Tennant asked for a resolution of support but Rugg said the board would take action at the next meeting so the full board can be present. Rugg stated that he is personally for the Safety Town.

Trustee Dr. John E. Skewis said the delay would permit the district to determine the cost to the district.

Safety Council member Ralph Odhom noted that the proposed project is unique and there is nothing like it in the United States.

Trustee E. Harvey Stone said the project sounded very good to him and Odhom asked if any of the three trustees present opposed the Safety Town and all three said they favor the project.

Plant Purchase Concerns City

An agreement that would make Chino Basin Municipal Water District the regional sewage agency for the West End appears to have the support of Ontario and Upland city councilmen.

But the councilmen, meeting together in Ontario City Hall, indicated their support hinges on a satisfactory price for the sale of the Ontario-Upland sewage treatment plant to the district.

They said the agreement should set forth this condition when it is placed before the Upland council Monday night and the Ontario council next Tuesday night for approval.

The agreement calls for formation by the water district of an improvement district in which taxes will be levied to finance purchase of existing sewage facilities and construction of a regional system, including a trunk line that would carry Montclair sewage to the Ontario-Upland plant and an addition to that plant to handle the increase load.

Councilmen were told that negotiations for purchase of the Ontario-Upland plant have already opened and are scheduled to be completed by the end of this month.

Some councilmen expressed renewed concern that the contract gives the cities no voice in operation of the regional sewage system, something they gave up earlier in the negotiations.

But Frank Hamilton, an attorney hired to represent the cities in the negotiations, said the water board cannot legally share its powers with anyone else.

Upland City Manager Elwin Alder said water board members have been "insensitive to public opinion" and Upland councilman George M. Gibson added that there is little public interest in water board action.

Hamilton said he believed the cities could effectively bring pressure to bear on the water board, especially acting together.

What You Pay Depends Upon Where You Live

Are you confused about property taxes? Does a relative or friend who has exactly the same house as you have to pay more or less than you do?

You have a right to be confused. Montclair is the only city or unincorporated community in the area where everyone has the same total property tax package.

A person living a few blocks or even a few doors away from you may be paying a different tax rate because that person might be in a different school district, street lighting district, park district, etc.

Residents of the City of San Bernardino are paying 62 different tax rates that vary from $11.64 to $14.48, the highest in San Bernardino County, while everyone in Montclair pays $12.73 per $100 of assessed valuation. Montclair has three different taxing code areas but they all have the same rate.

High and low figures were not available from the Los Angeles County Tax Assessor's office in Pomona but the most of the residents of Claremont pay $14.84 per $100 of assessed valuation, the highest in the area. Claremont residents pay seven different property tax rates.

Etiwanda has the lowest property tax rate in the valley portion of San Bernardino County. Etiwanda has 13 different property rates that vary from $9.02 to $11.87 per $100 of assessed valuation.

All of the tax rates quoted are based on 1971-72 rates. The 1972-73 rates will not be established until about September of this year. Homeowners exemptions are not included in the rates quoted.

What this actually means in dollars and cents is that a person paying the lowest rate in Etiwanda would pay $273 per year less in property taxes than a person who is paying the highest rate in the City of San Bernardino on a home that is assessed at $20,000. This amounts to a saving of $22.75 per month.

At the $14.84 rate, most of the people in Claremont are paying $742 per year. This is $291 more than the lowest rate in Etiwanda, or a difference of $24.25 per month.

Ontario residents are paying about 20 different rates that vary from $10.90 to $12.90 per $100 of assessed valuation. Ontario's highest rate is just slightly higher than the lowest rate in Upland, $12.76. Upland has 15 different rates that range up to a high of $13.46. Chino has nine different rates that run from $11.98 to $12.64.

A person with a home that is assessed at $20,000, an Ontario home owner would pay $94 per year less than he would if the same home were located in Upland. This figure is based on the lowest rate in each city. By using the highest rates for both cities, the Ontario home owner would pay $28 less.

On the same house that is assessed at $20,000

On the same house that is assessed at $20,000, an Ontario home owner would pay $54 per year less than he would if the same home were located in Chino when the low rates for the two cities are used. But, when the high rates are used for the two cities, Chino's rate is $12 per year less.

Ontario's lowest rate is $91.50 per year less than the Montclair rate, but Ontario's highest rate is $8.50 per year more than the single Montclair rate.

CITY	Number of Rates	Low Tax on $100	High Tax on $100
Ontario	20	$10.90	$12.90
Alta Loma	11	$11.43	$12.30
Cockeysville	11	$10.98	$12.99

Upland	15	$12.76	$13.46
Montclair	3	$12.73	$12.73
Chino	9	$11.98	$12.64
San Dimas	12	$11.44	$12.48

Pipeline Explained

The need for a large diameter water pipeline now being installed in the Upland area will be explained and a description of construction procedures presented to residents at a public meeting on Wednesday, July 26, at Pioneer Junior High School.

At the meeting, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., a representative of the Metropolitan Water District will explain how the pipeline will fit into the water distribution system in the area, show slides of similar construction work and answer questions residents may have about the project.

The pipeline, ranging in diameter from 8 to 10 feet, will extend about 4-1/2 miles from Campus Avenue to Thompson Creek along 18th and Miramar streets. It is part of a pipeline that will eventually carry Northern California water from the state's Devil Canyon Power Plant near San Bernardino to MWD's softening and filtration plant in La Verne -- a distance of 25 miles.

The work is being done by the J. F. Shea Co., Inc., under a $259,500 contract. Installation of the line is expected to be completed in early 1974.

Etiwanda Boasts Lowest Tax ($) Rate

Etiwanda has the lowest tax rate of any community in the area, according to the San Bernardino County Assessor's office, and there is a solid reason for it.

David Swaithe, a member of the Etiwanda Service Club board of directors said, "We don't have any special districts to speak of. We have one small recreation tax which amounts to about five cents per $100 of assessed valuation."

"I believe this special district is administered by the school district. They are building a new gymnasium, which will be completed before November. I think they are going to hire a full-time recreation director."

"At the present time, we have only the normal county and school taxes other than that and a lighting district. We don't have many services to provide out here. Sewage, trash collection and water are all handled by private companies. Police protection is provided by the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department. Both the West End and Fontana substations provide police protection because Etiwanda Avenue is the dividing line."

"A new lighting district was formed about a year ago. That is the only taxing district that has been formed in the last year that I know of."

"Basically, Etiwanda is remaining a rural community and it seems that the people want to keep it that way, at least for the time being."

"This may change when Interstate 15 comes through. When Interstate 15 comes through, we may have to add sewage and update the water system. I would anticipate that some growth, residential, industrial and commercial, will come with the completion of Interstate 15."

"With the completion of Interstate 15, I would think two major items would be needed. We would surely have to update the fire protection and water system, if nothing else. Both are barely adequate now. With any kind of increase in population, I think we will need more facilities."

Interstate 15 is scheduled to run from the Canadian border through Las Vegas, Etiwanda, Ontario, Corona and on down to San Diego. Funds have not been set aside yet for the completion of the route through this area, but the route has been at least tentatively established.

Swaithe said the Etiwanda

Service Club is the only body in Etiwanda that is recognized by the county. Etiwanda is an unincorporated community.

Schools Ok Student Spankings

A set of discipline policies which establish behavior standards for students, parents, teachers and administrators has been adopted by the Upland School District Board of Trustees despite the objections to the corporal punishment section by three mothers.

Jennie Ruiz said she objects to the school disciplining children.

Ms. Montoya said the school district went to every home seeking support for the last tax override. She said the school district should have contacted every home advising them that the discipline policy was scheduled for adoption.

She accused the school board of sneaking around to pass the discipline policies and Chairman William S. Rugg took exception to her remarks on the board sneaking around.

A third mother said she likes the discipline policy the way it is and sees no reason for a change.

Rugg said the new policies protect everyone all the way around. He said the new policies protect everyone all the way around. He said the policies insure that a child won't be hit in anger.

Ms. Montoya said the school should not discipline her children without her permission. She said she believes in discipline but the parents should be allowed to say yes or no on punishment.

Two people voiced support for the discipline policies.

Trustee E. Harvey Stone said he objects to the deletion of the required notification of parents when a child is disciplined but withdrew his objections when Rugg explained that the parents will be notified if they request notification. Rugg said notification of parents on very minor discipline could compound the problem and the child might receive double punishment when it is not really necessary.

The set of policies was formulated by a committee of teachers, parents and administrators. The policies outline the standards for behavior and the rights of everyone involved.

The policy gives teachers the right to administer corporal punishment when witnessed by the principal or another witness chosen by the administrator. Teachers are also given the right to remove students who disrupt the class from the classroom.

The policy notes that corporal punishment should be used only rarely to effect proper conduct. It states that corporal punishment should not be administered

Buried Treasure Tale Still Haunts Area Foothills

When most people think of buried treasure, they think of South Sea Islands and Long John Silver. But a buried treasure is included in the history of the Pomona Valley, and so far as anyone knows, the treasure is still buried.

In 1839, Don Tiburcio Tapia, a rich and influential citizen of Los Angeles, was granted a large domain by Governor Alvarado, the Mexican governor of California. Don Tiburcio named his land the "Cucamonga Rancho." The ranch included most of the area that makes up Cucamonga and Upland today.

Don Tiburcio built a fortress-like house and called it "Casa Loma Colorado" (House of the Red Hill) an apt name for a local mansion before smog pollution set it. The house was built on land located south of the Red Hill Country Club. Don Tiburcio was a cattleman and there were said to be 1500 head of cattle on his rancho.

But about the buried treasure -- when rumors of American aggression and war with the United States began to circulate in California, Don Tiburcio became understandably nervous. There were no banks in the area in those days, and Senor Tapia had been acting as banker for local citizens. He carried a large coin chest around with him, and this included not only his own pesos, but those of local residents who had entrusted him with their cash.

The tradition runs that Don Tiburcio became uneasy about the money, so one night he loaded the coin chest on a wagon, and aided only by a trusted Indian servant, rode off into the night alone -- with the loot.

Later, Don Tiburcio returned to his rancho, sans the chest. It wasn't long after that Don Tiburcio died, poisoned, some said, by handling acid used for killing coyotes.

No one except the Indian servant knew the location of the chest, and a lot of people were interested. However, the servant said he was bound by an oath so terrifying that he would never tell anything except that the chest was buried under a big tree with three branching roots. This, of course, didn't tell much.

Some years later, Don Tapia's daughter, Maria Tapia Prudhomme, moved with her husband to the House of the Red Hill. She knew the story of the buried treasure, but preferred to let the story die, possibly as it didn't say much for her father's honesty.

Ms. Prudhomme occupied her father's old bedroom. One night, she saw a mysterious light moving across the wall until it stopped at one particular point. This vision repeated itself and Ms. Prudhomme told her husband about it.

Prudhomme, a practical man, was not impressed. However, his wife insisted that she had seen a "light" and she was convinced there had to be something behind the wall. To prove to his wife how foolish this fancy was, Prudhomme lodged his knife in the adobe wall. To his surprise, it sank into a hollow place. Prudhomme cut a hole in the wall, reached in his hand and drew out a purse containing silver pesos and a scrap of paper with faded lines and words on it. This, Ms. Prudhomme was sure, was the key to the hidden chest. But after careful study and much search, the famous coin chest was still not found.

From that day to this, the hunt for the treasure has gone on. Freshly dug holes are still found in the area, according to residents, who naturally resent the intrusion of dreamers with shovels.

The thought of a buried treasure is juicy, and an interesting part of valley lore. Remember, though, if you find Don Tiburcio's coin chest today, you'll have to talk to your friendly IRS agent before even considering the purchasing power of 19th century silver pesos.

Chino Basin Cuts Budget

The Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD) Board of Directors performed major surgery on its 1972-73 budget Wednesday and when it was over, seven cents had been chopped off the originally proposed 10 cent tax rate increase.

The directors met at the district office in Cucamonga for budget discussion.

The $7.6 million budget was not adopted without some discussion among board members, however.

Some $540,230 worth of budget cuts were presented to the five board members Wednesday as a result of recent board instruction to bring the budget down to where it could be financed by the present district-level tax rate of 34 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation. With the proposed cuts ($507,330 were savings of tax dollars) the tax rate was projected to be 36 cents per $100 property valuation.

Most major cuts came in engineering and attorney fees. Acting on a suggestion of Director Alexander Tobin of Upland, the CBMWD staff developed a plan to make use of in-house engineers and attorneys and use outside firms for consultation only when necessary thereby cutting the costs.

Controversy flared when a $250,000 deletion for the Rialto Reach project was proposed. The funds were to be used to contract with city and area water districts for construction of project connections.

Especially with the current water crisis, I think we should leave some money in the budget for the Rialto Reach project," Director Ray W. Ferguson of Ontario, objected. The project which has been completed to Haven Avenue, Alta Loma, will bring northern California's Feather River water into the Los Angeles Basin. The eastern route of the waterway is through the Rialto Reach.

"If we're going to be asking Met (Metropolitan Water District) for help for the project and we haven't got any money budgeted, I'm going to be dead in the water," said Ferguson. The Ontario Director has been working with the project and is the CBMWD representative to the MWD.

The budgeted funds are for five local connections ranging from $100,000 and less depending on the size. No connection will be constructed until approximately one year after it is requested. But funds must be presented when the request is made, according to J. Andrew Schlange, CBMWD general manager. "There is a critical need for the Rialto Reach project, but it will be impossible to spend these funds during the next year," argued Board Director Carl G. Masingale of Cucamonga.

Tobin agreed with Masingale saying "If we don't make a request this year we've added on cent to the tax rate that we don't need."

Ferguson requested that $50,000 be placed back in the budget for the Rialto Reach project.

by anyone while the student is under high emotional tension, pupils should not be punished in the presence of other pupils, by other pupils or as a mass punishment procedure.

It notes that corporal punishment should be administered with a light paddle to the buttocks only. Slapping, hair pulling, shoving and other similar techniques of punishment are not permitted.

Areas covered by the set of policies includes permission to leave the grounds, standards for student dress, parent conferences, detention, suspension, expulsion, hazing, liability of parent for vandalism, willful damage to school property and a variety of other things from gang fighting to narcotics.

The old policy on corporal punishment permitted principals to administer corporal punishment. It also permitted the principals to delegate authority to others.

In other action, the trustees voted to retain the same officers with Rugg as chairman, Ms. Dorothy H. Gibson as vice president, Dr. John E. Skewis as clerk and Stone as the county committee representative.

The board also retained its meeting night of the second Tuesday of the month and kept Upland Elementary School as the meeting site.

The board adopted policies on a joint advisory committee, an opportunity class and certificated personnel leave. The trustees voted to renew memberships in the county and state school boards associations and accepted a study of a proposed policy.

Anne Graham Psychology Bumps

I'm having dinner at my friend Jennifer's. Upstairs, her two-year-old suddenly starts crying. "Oh, dear," Jennifer gets up and leaves the table. She disappears into the kitchen, then quickly returns with a glass of milk and some cookies on a plate. A few minutes later, the crying stops. Jennifer comes back to the table. "She's in that two-to-three 'awful' stage," Jennifer explains. "She'll be crying again in 10 or 15 minutes. Wait and see. Then I'll have to take her something. She claims she's afraid of the dark." Jennifer looks upset. "Bob and I have read all the psychology books. I guess we'll have to get some new ones."

I could've given Jennifer some excellent advice, but I didn't want her thinking me a pervert, and people who relied on child psychology books certainly would.

When I was three, I was a monster. An only child, I usually could get my own way by sending a few howls, and I found that I could win my parents away from parties, the radio or anything else that two healthy young people in their early 30s might find interesting to do at night. All I had to do was cry loud enough and claim I was afraid of the dark.

My mother had minored in psychology in college. She rattled through books, trying to find some way to put me to sleep without the use of laudanum and had no success.

I was a happy little beast, ruling the household on tears, drops and wails. Then my exhausted parents decided to take a vacation, and asked my sweet Celtic grandmother if she would take care of me. Granny said she'd be delighted. Little did I know what I was in for.

My grandmother, though born in this country, was of pure Scottish ancestry. The Celts are notoriously fey, and my grandmother did nothing to belie the tradition. She was a great storyteller, though her subject matter often bordered on the gruesome. My first night alone with Granny changed the course of my life.

I was put to bed at the hour my mother had pronounced. My grandmother then went downstairs to read, and I was left alone in the dark without so much as a lousy Oreo.

I started screaming. It didn't take long. Footsteps on the stairs. Granny was bending over me. "What's wrong with you?" Triumph. "Mummy always leaves a light on." This was to be the first in my list of demands.

My grandmother turned on a light, then looked at me, and shook her head. "How unfortunate," she said. "Of course, not everyone can live forever. Still, a little child. . . . She headed for the door."

I may have been just three, but I was shrewd enough to catch the hint of a threat.

"Something can hurt me?" I asked my sainted granny.

"Well, of course," she replied. Granny went to the window and peered out into the night. "They're there all right," she announced. "Probably just waiting until I leave the room. Then they'll come for you."

By this time, I'd started shaking. "Who, Granny?"

My grandmother smiled. "Why, the ghouls who rule the night. She came over to my bed and tucked the covers about my quaking form. "Oh, they're awful looking bits of creation. I hate to think what they'll do to you once they get you in their clutches."

I was crying -- for real. "I want Mummy!"

"Well, she's far away," my grandmother said. "I'm afraid she can't help you. You see, dear, ghouls are annoyed when they see a light on in the night. They like everything dark. And little girls who sleep with a light on and stay up half the night crying. . . . She paused and moved her finger across her throat, making an unpleasant sound. Even at three, I knew what that meant."

As I recall, I begged, "Granny, turn off the light. I'll be a good girl. I won't cry. I'll never sleep with a light on again." Granny kissed me on the cheek, turned off the light and left the room.

Granny has since gone to that great storybook kingdom in the sky. I'm certain she and the Brothers Grimm enjoy one another's company. Anyway, after my run in with Granny, I was a pretty good kid for a number of years, and even now can't stand to sleep with a light on.

A few years ago, I told my father about the experience with my grandmother. He was amused. "She kept me in line the same way," he said. "That was Mother's Psychology."

"I'll bet you were an angel," I said.

"I had to be," my father replied. Otherwise I had visions of waking up, dismembered, in a sack in the river."

I wonder what this world would be like if every kid had a grandmother who could sub for Vincent Price?

Known for the Quality We Keep!

2190 N. GAREY, POMONA

Coming Up American Pie, '72 Style

"Just keeping them in clothes is unbelievably expensive," moans a suburban housewife. "It's true," says a department store clerk. "They'll cost you a fortune." Who? What? Kids, pets, a mailman with blackmail tendencies?

None of the above. The groans and headshakes are all for 'Barbie Dolls,' sweet little pieces of American-schmaltz that have given Kid Power a real boost. There's the original 'Barbie' Barbie Doll. Then there's her wardrobe, summer, spring and fall. Then there's Barbie's husband with his hip-mod man's wardrobe. And, Barbie's third cousin Jake. . . and so it goes. Deprive your kid, and you've probably got a 10-year-old runaway.

One individualist, John Eirich of Upland, has found a way to keep his daughter's collection of Barbie dolls happy, and his nine-year-old Mary Ellen equally pleased.

Witrich, an engineer whose hobby is woodworking, built Mary Ellen's dolls a Malibu beach house. "It was a Christmas present," Eirich said, "and it really didn't take me that long to build it. Just four or five months. I made it out of scrap wood."

The dollhouse is an impressive sight. It's 40 feet wide and five feet high. It stands about three feet high. The decor is basically Polynesian, complete with genuine Easter Island Aku-Aku outdoor motifs, a sundeck, patio torches, and a garage with a "one child-power" door. Pull a string, it opens; pull again, it closes.

Inside the house, there's wall-to-wall carpeting (the color scheme is soft orange and beige), drapes that open and close, a Swedish hanging fireplace that boasts a faint, glowing fire, and hanging lamps.

"A flickering bulb gives the impression of the fire," Eirich said.

"The hanging lamps are made over Christmas decorations. I built the house for Mary Ellen's Barbie dolls since she had no place to keep them. I couldn't imagine buying a place like this for under $200. Eirich also made a camper's tent for the Barbie dolls. The tent, an authentic reproduction, has flap windows that roll up and down. Inside, there are folding cots.

"I can reproduce just about anything," Eirich said. "My pride and joy is a reproduction I did of our house a couple years ago." Eirich said it took him three years to build the reproduction, but he managed an exact replica of the house and the lot it stood on.

Eirich laughed. "Then," he said, "they told us they had to put in the Kellogg interchange. That took our house and the lot. Now all I've got left is the reproduction."

Eirich is interested in selling the house reproduction to Knott's Berry Farm. "I don't think they have anything like this," he said. "Woodworking isn't difficult for me. I like working on a small scale and using my imagination."

Whatever the case, having a father like John Eirich must be a joy for Mary Ellen and a pleasure even for her demanding Barbie Dolls.

Garrett, Tuthill Married In LV

Linda Rae Garrett and Jesse Tuthill were married recently in the La Verne Church of the Brethren.

The former Ms. Garrett is the daughter of Ms. Bernice Garrett of Upland. She is a graduate of Covina High School and now attends La Verne College.

Mr. Tuthill is the son of Ms. Sadie Tuthill of El Monte. He was graduated from El Monte High School, Rio Hondo Junior College and La Verne College. The bride was escorted down the aisle by Roy Broberg. She wore a floor-length gown with a lace bodice and a skirt ruffled with lace. A Juliet cap held her cathedral-length veil of silk illusion in place. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Maid of honor was Judy Selhorst of La Verne. Bridesmaids were Cynthia Short, Judy Baradowski and Debi Szarkowski.

Peter Mason was best man. Ushers were John Leyssohn, Galen Terrance and David Rothwell. A reception followed the marriage ceremony.

Admitted To Floating Campus

Katherine L. Tess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tess of Foothill Blvd., Cucamonga, and a senior psychology major at Long Beach State, has been admitted to World Campus Afloat -- Chapman College, for the fall semester.

Ms. Tess will join 450 other college students, representing 200 colleges and universities in most of the 50 states, when World Campus Afloat leaves Los Angeles Sept. 3 for a four-month study voyage to ports in the South Pacific, Asia and Africa.

Students will attend classes both on shipboard and in port. The 'campus' for the program is the 18,000-gross-ton Universe Campus, a ship owned by Seawise Foundations of Liberia.

Valley Hospital Needs Foster Grandparents--Now--That Care

"I love all beautiful things, I seek and adore them; God hath no better praise, And man in his hasty days is honored for them."

-- Robert Bridges

Pacific State Hospital in Pomona needs foster grandparents for the special children who live there. Increased funding by the state and federal governments has created 25 vacancies in the program.

To be eligible, a person must be over the age of 60, and have an income of less than $2,000 if single, or $2,600 if married. Foster grandparents are paid $1.60 an hour for 20 hours a week. This amount of income does not affect Social Security benefits. Volunteers are given an extra dollar a day for transportation and are provided with a hot lunch. Before entering the program, volunteers must undergo a free physical examination. They will receive free yearly examinations while they are involved in the program.

The foster grandchildren at Pacific State are all mentally retarded. Often they are physically handicapped as well. Each foster grandparent works with two children at one time. They devote time to one child in the mornings and work with another in the afternoons.

"The program's not at all difficult," said Joyce Workman, program secretary. "The grandparents don't take care of any of the child's basic needs, such as feeding him or taking him to the bathroom. The staff takes care of that. Our foster grandparents do just what ordinary doting grandparents of average children do--they take the children for walks, talk with them and play with them. We've had a lot of luck with the program so far. It's really a wonderful thing."

Said one foster grandparent, "I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed playing and being with these children. My own grandchildren are grown, and I've missed having little ones around. These children seem to need you so much more than other children would. They have more love to give."

"These special children appreciate having someone pay attention to them," said another volunteer. "In this case, love giving becomes a two-way situation. My daughter has a special child. He lives at home with his parents, so he's not often lonely. With some of these little ones, I think it's different."

"All we ask is that you care," said a program employee. "Volunteers are given a two-week orientation when they enter the program and there's monthly individual guidance is given as it's needed. These children are like other children. They need, even crave, affection. To give love to any lonely child has its obvious rewards."

Those interested in the foster grandparent program at Pacific State Hospital can contact Ms. Charlene Guerrero, supervisor, Foster Grandparents Program, Pacific State Hospital, P.O. Box 100, Pomona 91768 or telephone (714) 595-1221, extension 589.

The struggle for power.

We could run short of electricity.
Conservation is vital.

Remember that record-breaking heat wave last year?

You weren't the only one sweating it out.

So were we. The demand for electricity hit an all-time peak on September 13, 1971. It was 13% higher than the 1970 peak.

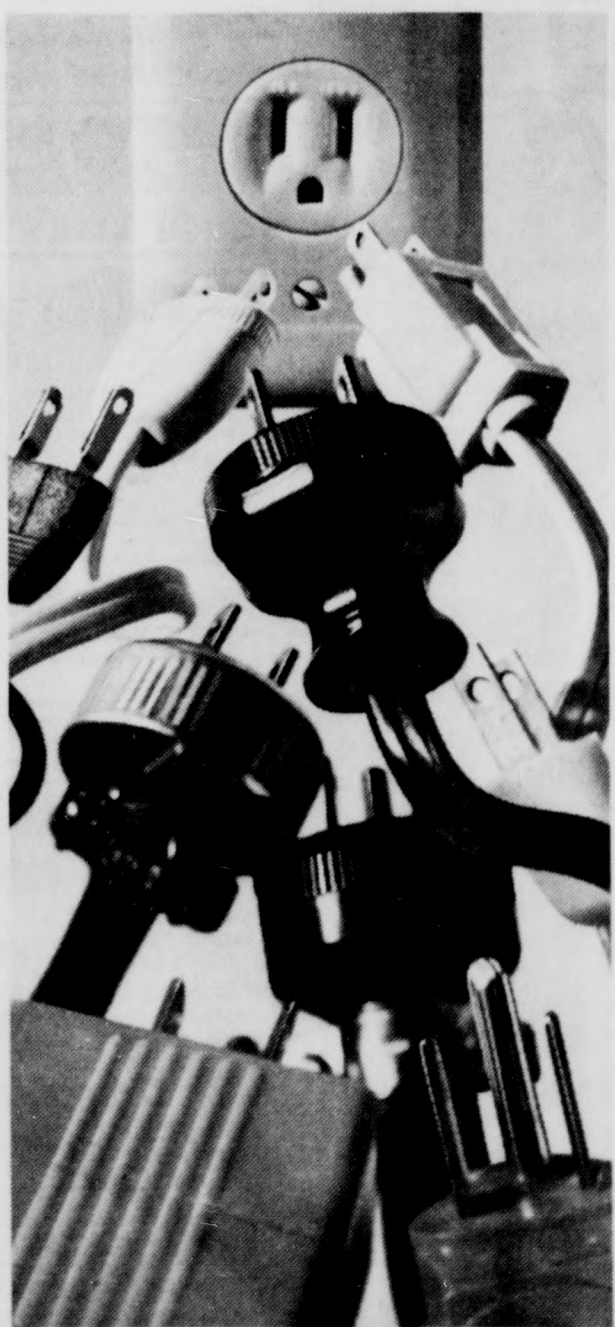

We met all demands, but our system was severely strained.

But what about the years ahead? Each year the demand for electricity keeps right on growing. New homes keep going up. And schools. Office buildings. Factories.

All will require additional electricity. So will the new equipment needed to clean up the environment.

Unless Edison is permitted to build additional power plants and transmission lines, it may become necessary to blackout blocks of customers on a rotational basis within two or three years.

Yet permits necessary to build any new major plants have been delayed or blocked for the past four years.

While a power shortage did not become a reality in 1971, the threat of one did. Edison is working with industrial and business firms to conserve electricity in offices and factories.

That's an immediate problem. We're working hard to resolve it.

The long-range problem requires finding more ways to conserve energy and to use our nation's total energy resources wisely. That involves all of us.

In Edison's fossil-fueled plants, for example, we're now able to produce 30% more electricity from a unit of fuel than in 1948. That helps.

And by using higher-voltage transmission lines, we're also able to deliver electricity more efficiently.

Perhaps you can conserve energy, too. Have you considered ways to make every kilowatt count at home? We'll be happy to send you a list of practical suggestions.

Write: Conservation, Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, California 91770.

'Bait-And-Switch' Tactics Victimize Buyers

Alluring Ads For Bulk Meat Often Mislead Consumers

Have you ever made the mistake of responding to an alluring advertisement about how you can purchase meat for your freezer in quantity at a fraction of its regular cost? If so, you're not alone.

Each year, thousands of consumers throughout the country are misled by the same type of unscrupulous advertising. In fact, the majority of reputable merchants, who deplore such deceit, also have been victimized; they not only have lost a substantial amount of business, but false advertising has led consumers to question the merits of honest advertising.

Such merchants are engaged in what is termed "bait-and-switch" advertising. In other words, very low prices are offered to the consumer for bulk meats. Then, when customers are shown what poor quality the advertised meat really is, "high-pressure" salesmen persuade them to buy more expensive meat. This often results in a family spending far more than it originally had intended or than it can afford.

According to freezer-industry estimates released in 1971, there are more than 400 bait-and-switch outlets in the United States. The number increases as employees of these companies discover just how easy it is for them to establish a business of their own.

On an investment of less than $5,000, they can lease a store with a beef cooler, purchase a cutting table, meat saw, and various other necessary implements. And since thousands of Americans own home freezers, this provides a made-to-order opportunity for these operators who seek quick profits by selling more to a customer than he can afford.

How does the "bait-and-switch" scheme work? First, the bait is prepared in the form of a local radio, television or newspaper advertisement. The ad will offer halves and quarters of beef at ridiculously low prices usually less than half the price charged by retail stores. Generally the ad also will invite comparison of its advertised bulk prices with those of choicest cuts of beef from neighborhood stores.

As everyone knows, there are few foods less appealing than an old side of beef of inferior quality. The meat is dark and the fat yellow. A "slick salesman" will quickly turn the poor appearance of this meat to his advantage. He will agree with the disappointed customer that the advertised beef is "really no bargain at all," and that once the meat is

Q: What Is Organic

An estimated 10 million people -- nearly a third more than just three years ago -- will spend between $40 and $80 million this year on foods sold as "organically grown" or "organically processed."

But because there are no legal definitions of those terms -- and no government regulation of organic farming, advertising or labeling -- more than half that money will be going for "ersatz organic" rather than the real thing, according to recognized experts in the field.

To correct this situation and to extend truth-in-labeling to cover the expanding organic food industry, Sen. Alan Cranston (D) of California introduced an amendment to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act that:

1. For the first time defines "organically grown" and "organically processed" foods and food supplements.

2. Directs the Food and Drug Administration to set standards under which food can be advertised or distributed as "organic" and to prescribe labeling requirements.

3. Calls for federal registration of all farms and food processing plants marketing organic foods.

4. Requires at least twice-a-year inspections of organic food farms and processors.

5. Bans the use of the words "organic," "organically grown" or "organically processed" by non-registered farms and businesses.

Cranston said his bill is intended to "protect the consumer from being cheated, help the legitimate farmer obtain his rightful share of the market, and preserve the naturalness of the soil."

The Cranston bill defines organically grown food as "food which has not been subjected to pesticides or artificial fertilizers, and which has been grown in soil whose humus content is increased by the addition of organic matter."

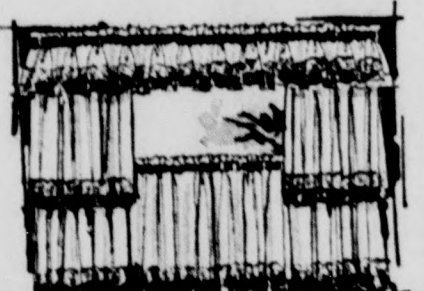

Organically processed food is defined as "food which in its processing has not been treated with preservatives, hormones, antibiotics or synthetic additives of any kind."

A SPORTS CAR WITH ROOM FOR FOUR ADULTS!

First, what do we mean by a "Sports Car"? Well, we don't mean a souped-up sedan with racing stripes. The Fiat 124 Sport Coupe has a 1608 cc engine with twin overhead camshaft that turns out 104 bhp at 6,500 rpm.

It has power-assisted disc brakes on all four wheels, and a standard 5-speed gearbox. It's a car you actually drive, unlike most modern cars which you merely point.

And what do we mean by "room for four"? We mean legroom, headroom and elbowroom for four 180 lb. men. With baggage. If you find this hard to believe, all you have to do is take the car out on the road. We can arrange it for you. Now.

trimmed, and the suet and large bones removed, there will be a loss of more than half the original weight. The result is that the remaining meat on such a cut can cost more than twice as much per pound as the advertised price for the untrimmed half or quarter.

A Boston woman, for example, attracted by an advertisement for beef at only 35 cents a pound was told by the store manager that such meat would be inadvisable for her family because of its age and poor appearance.

Instead, he persuaded her to purchase a 750-pound hookload of fine quality beef for only $600 or 80 cents a pound. She was assured that no more than 15 percent would be waste. When the package arrived at her home, however, it contained only about 375 pounds of beef. Only the threat of a lawsuit made the dealer rectify his mistake by refunding $300.

Another commonly used tactic of bait-and-switch operators is to place in ads a statement that the bargain meat has been inspected and graded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Most of these ads, however, fail to state specifically which of the eight USDA grades has been given to the meat offered.

The grades in order of quality are: U.S. Prime, U.S. Choice, U.S. Standard, U.S. Commercial, U.S. Utility, U.S. Cutter and U.S. Canner.

The sixth ranked "utility" grade comes from old cattle whose meat is seldom sold at retail. The "cutter" and "canner" grades ordinarily are used in processed meat products and are rarely sold at retail stores. All three grades serve as excellent bait for operators in swaying customers toward more expensive meat.

Bait-and-switch operators also will advertise their meat as "Heavy Western Beef." This description sounds impressive and the low prices even more so. But "bargain hungry" customers who respond to such advertisements will be shown a dark and aged carcass laden with yellow fat.

The salesman will explain to the disgruntled customer that the advertised heavy Western beef is cow meat which cannot be realistically compared with steer beef that is sold in retail stores. The seller will then direct the customer's attention to his higher priced meat.

A person should be leery of any highpressure salesman who encourages him to purchase more meat than he planned to buy or than he can afford. The salesman will try to calm any reluctance on the part of his "victim" by explaining that the extra cost of a greater amount of meat can be financed by making "deferred purchase payments."

If you do get "swindled" by a bait-and-switch operator, report all the facts in writing to your local prosecutor, state Attorney General or Federal Trade Commission.

Frozen Food Advice From Science Panel

Keep frozen foods frozen until just before use, and once thawed, don't let them stand for long periods of time at room temperature.

Three scientists who addressed a meeting of the American Society for Testing and Materials warned that if frozen food "is kept in a warm room for five to 12 hours, the food probably will be spoiled and may be dangerous."

The scientists, who discussed microbiological standards for frozen foods, were Milo Don Appleman, Ph.D., professor of bacteriology in the department of biological sciences at USC; Milo Don Appleman Jr., MD, an endocrinologist, and Marie Duarte Appleman, Ph.D., research associate in the USC biological sciences department.

They estimated that about 10 million cases of food-borne disease occur annually in the United States and said that the source of mishandling of the foods can be identified in about half the cases.

The scientists reported that food in food service establishments was involved in more than twice as many outbreaks of food borne disease as foods prepared in the home.

Horns Featured At Music Festival

The Claremont Music Festival at Pomona College continues at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow night in Bridges Hall of Music. John Barrows and Ralph Pyle will perform Telemann's "Concerto for Two Horns" with the Festival Orchestra, conducted by Gloria Bernstein.

Dutch oboist, Koen Van Slooten, will be the soloist in the first West Coast performance of Wurlin's "Chamber Concerto for Oboe and Ten Players." The Wurlin ensemble consists of piano (Peter Hewitt), six percussionists (led by Hal Rees), tuba (Rick Thompson), contrabass (Bertram Turetzky) and harp (Jo Ann Turovsky). Also on the Friday program will be the "Horn Concerto, Op. 91" by Glere, a 20th Century Russian composer, with Barry Tuckwell as soloist.

The Horn Week, under Tuckwell's direction, will climax in a 3 p.m. concert on Saturday, featuring the premiere performance of a new version of Eugene Zador's Music for Brass; plus other works for brass and choir by Brahms, Gabrieli (Jubilate Deo) and Schubert with members of the faculty, horn ensembles and the Louis Ronfeldt Chorale; and Gunther Schuller's "Five Pieces for Five Horns, Op. 20" (1952-53).

Chamber ensembles will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, July 26 with cellist Joel Krosnick performing "Synchromisms" for cello and tape (1963) by Davidovsky, an American composer who was among the first to write synchronized music for instruments and electronic tape. Also on the program will be Shinhara's recent "Obsession" performed by Koen van Slooten (oboe) and Peter Hewitt (piano). The piece is characterized by its sharp and conflicting rhythms; Don Martino's "Cinque Framenti" performed by Bertram Turetzky (contrabass) and van Slooten (oboe); plus Schubert's "Oboe, Op. 166" with Charles Libove and Ken Goldsmith (violins), Raphael Hillier (viola), Krosnick (cello), Turetzky (bass), Mitchell Lurie (clarinet), a bassoon and Tuckwell (horn).

There will be a free institute concert at 8:15 p.m. on Monday, July 24. For program and ticket information phone (714) 626-8511, extension 2242.

'Superstar' Held Over By Popular Request

"Jesus Christ Superstar," the rock opera currently breaking box-office records in the new outdoor Amphitheater at Universal Studios, is extending its limited engagement to September 3 because of the unprecedented demand for tickets.

Hailed by critics, the Tom O'Horgan production of the Robert Stigwood/MCA presentation adds a new dimension to theater-going in the Los Angeles area, with its universal appeal to all ages.

The cast of 30 talented singers and dancers is headed by Bruce Scott in the role of "Jesus," James Shano as "Judas," Heather MacRae as "Mary Magdalene," Allan Nicholls as "Herod," Jim Turner as "Capharnaum" and Alan Martin as "Pontius Pilate."

Performances are nightly (except Mondays) at 8:45 p.m., with two shows on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 and 11:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale as late as showtime at the Amphitheater box-office, Hollywood Freeway at Lankershim Blvd., turnoff, or at the Southern California Music Company, all Wallich's Music City Stores and all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

For ticket information call (213) 980-9421.

DRAMA

Padua Hills Theater, Claremont -- An outdoor 'a pres theater' fiesta is being enjoyed by patrons of the folk musical productions at Padua Hills Theater. After each performance, the Mexican players invite their audience to join them under the olive trees for music, dancing and refreshments.

This outdoor gala, or 'Jamaica' as it is called at Padua Hills, is a summertime tradition that is unique in Southern California. Padua Hills itself is unique in that it is the only year-round theater presenting the folk music and dancing of Mexico and early California in an impressive repertoire of stage plays.

Running currently at the theater is "Tropical Veracruz," a two-act play that presents the folk music and customs of Veracruz, Mexico. Reservations are recommended for both theater and the dining room. Padua Hills is located three miles north of Foothill Blvd., on Padua Avenue near Claremont.

ART

Associated Artists, Montclair -- The annual Summer Art Festival will be held by Associated Artists at the Montclair Plaza through July 28, 29, and 30, during regular business hours. There will be two qualified judges and cash prizes will be awarded in three separate categories -- oil, watercolor, and mixed medias. Ribbons will be displayed on winning entries after judging.

Quick Tips On How To Better Maintain Your Home

Question: "Paint chronically peels from our inside plaster walls. Sealing and resealing, suggested by local builders, have been unsuccessful in our circa 1925 house. In a bedroom and kitchen ceiling and walls, in a bath ceiling only, the paint peels in about five months after painting. I am told that several years ago leaks seeped through the wall, thus activating the lime in the plaster. In the kitchen will a wall-board overlay hold and work? Would wallpaper hold on the old walls elsewhere? To patch plaster that is cracked can one just dig it out, refilling an inverted V, and expect it to hold? After repairing, can it be textured? Too, I have a brick fence pulling apart from a brick post. Can it be re-mortared or should I have the entire brick post redone?"

Answer: Moisture is usually the culprit behind peeling paint. Diminish the dew, and the doing you do of redecorating will stay better done.

Circular No. 763 by the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer Association Inc., has a checklist of points to watch in detecting moisture sources, to wit:

1. Siding
 - a. Split, warped, or broken,
 - b. Unprotected ends.
2. Flashing
 - a. Around windows, doors, and entrant angles.
 - b. Around holes for utilities.
3. Roof
 - a. Loose or broken shingles.
 - b. Holes or worn places.
 - c. Flashings around flues, vents, etc.
4. Basement
 - a. Water coming through walls or floor.
 - b. Crawl space properly ventilated.
5. Gutters
 - a. Stopped, broken, or rusty.
 - b. Holes or breaks in downspouts.
 - c. Formation of ice barriers in winter.
6. Ventilation
 - a. If moisture condenses on windows in winter, make sure:
There is an adequate vapor barrier in the wall.
Sources of moisture are ventilated.
 - b. Attic ventilation is adequate and operating.
 - c. Crawl spaces are adequately ventilated or covered.
7. Outside drainage
 - a. Downspouts carry water away from the house.
 - b. Water does not stand around house after a rain.

c. Drains in area-ways are adequate and operating.

Moisture remedies may be among the following:

Repair or replace rotten, warped, split or shrunken siding; fill cracks or nail holes with putty or caulking compound; repair cracked or broken exterior plaster or masonry; keep wood siding out of contact with the earth;

remove irrigatable landscaping near foundations; flash or caulk around dormers, doors, windows, conduits, or pipes.

Flash or caulk joints where dissimilar exterior materials meet; seal or repaint masonry, plaster, or siding; re-nail or replace broken, rotten, or loose shingles; flash or caulk around chimneys, vent pipes, aerials, and flues; clean gutters and downspouts; in snow country, install heating wire over bottom 16 inches of roof, in gutter and downspouts; flash bottom edge of shingles at eave; waterproof basement walls and floor; regrade area around house to ensure positive drainage away from the building; drain water from downspouts away from foundations; adequately ventilate basements, basementless spaces and attics. Install and use kitchen, laundry, and bathroom fans to expel water vapor; install dehumidifiers; cover earth in crawl spaces with a vapor barrier; vent gas-burning appliances directly outside; prevent exit of interior moisture through walls by oil-painting two coats interior surface; seal around interior electrical and plumbing outlets; install an attic fan; ventilate spaces between rafters joists where there is no attic, etc.

After the moisture has been eliminated, or if there is not now a moisture problem, remove all loose paint and loose plaster.

EVERY DOLLAR YOU SAVE IS A BOOST TO THE ECONOMY.

Some people would have you believe that saving money is a disservice to the economy of this country. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Your money is loaned out to build new homes and churches and shopping centers, and low-cost multiple dwellings.

And that means jobs. Jobs for carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, road-builders, painters and a host of other occupations. Jobs for the people who cut the timber, make the bricks, manufacture the plumbing materials and paint.

The list is endless. It goes on and on. Your savings working to build the economy while they are building for your future.

It has been estimated that every dollar provided by a Savings and Loan creates four dollars of new economic activity. As a result, the $38 billion we loaned in mortgages last year generated $152 billion in the economy.

Do something good for yourself. Open an account at a Savings and Loan Association. We'll put your money to work—for you and for the country.

Upland Post 73 Title Hopes Fade

Upland Post 73 District 25 title hopes have all but faded, however Ted Miller's crew will seek to represent the league in the upcoming area playoffs as a second place team.

Upland was all but eliminated from District 25 title contention when it dropped a 9-4 decision to Redlands.

Brain McLaughlin paced the seven-hit Post 73 effort with a double and a single, while Gary Marvel connected for a triple.

Gary Waldron's wildness in the early innings contributed heavily to Redlands' scoring in the first three innings. Three consecutive walks by the Upland south-paw at one point, for example, pushed over two runs of Redlands four runs in the first.

The loss was Upland's third in 12 decisions in District 25 play, placing them three games behind unbeaten Ontario.

Meanwhile, both Montclair Post 616 and Tri-City enjoyed relatively successful weeks.

Post 616 crushed Whittier, 23-5 in a non-league outing and then came back to dispose of Rialto, 2-1, in a District 25 title.

Montclair tallied for 11 runs in the first three innings before putting the game away for good in the fifth with a 12-run explosion.

Randy Spaich and Mark Berrier paced the 19-hit Post 616 attack with three safeties each, with the latter collecting a pair of triples.

Montclair then struggled with Rialto for nine innings in their next outing, before pushing over the winning run in the 10th Pat Proulx scored on pitcher Tim Price's infield single.

Price went the distance on the mound, fanning eight batters while allowing just four hits and four walks.

Tri-City split its District 18 games, whipping Rialto 11-6, and dropping a narrow 10-8 decision to Redlands.

Against Rialto, Tri-City's 12-hit attack was paced by Joe Sawyer, John Sandoval, and Rayn Alexander, who each collected two hits.

In the Redlands game, Tri-City rallied from a 9-5 deficit to within 9-8 after seven innings and had a chance to tie the contest when the visitors were ahead 10-8, but left two runners left on base and had one thrown out at third in the bottom of the ninth.

Jiminez Wins Country Title

Rick Jiminez won the overall title in the third Chaffey College cross country meet, covering the 3.2 mile course in 17:21.

Jiminez, who advanced to the CIF quarterfinals in the two-mile while attending Chaffey High this season, was followed by Raymond Ramirez of Ontario, Ron Sickafosse of Upland, and Mark and Carl Orr of Upland.

In the open division, Rick Luna won with a slower time of 19:02, while Steve Belg take the junior high division race and Barry Ruderman was victorious in the elementary school bracket.

Cimi Ruderman was the winner in the elementary school girl's race.

Swimmers Remain On Top

The Upland Aquatic Swim Club recently continued its dominance of the Mount Baldy League with a 356-193 triumph over previously unbeaten Chaffey.

Upland, the two-time defending champion, remains unbeaten and is all alone in first place.

Coach Jessie Staples believes that the exercise and spirit contributed by the competition in the Mount Baldy League is quite instrumental in the development of tomorrow's swimming star.

However, Staples also adds that the AAU-sponsored swimming program is set for all ages.

"When most people hear about AAU swimming competition, immediately they think about the super stars such as Gary Hall, Sue Atwood, and Mark Spitz. These are the ones who are the most publicized due to their great accomplishments," says Staples.

"What most people don't realize is that the AAU has an excellent program set up for all ages, from 6-90, and you don't have to be a superstar to be involved in AAU competition."

"Some parents have fought the idea of letting their children join an AAU club, thinking that she or he would have to compete against the superstars. But due to the extensive instructional age-group swimming program, this is not true," continued Staples.

The AAU clubs are divided into six age groups, and each age group is broken up into C, B, A, AA time standards to insure equal competition in which everybody will have an equal chance to win.

As the summer clocks faster times, he or she continues to advance through the divisions until he or she gets good enough to compete in the senior or open divisions where they would meet the Spitzs and the Atwoods.

"This is the basic set-up of the AAU swimming program," says Staples. "It is developmental in its idea and offers something for everyone."

Fencer On To N.Y.

Like so many other athletes, Sheila Armstrong just missed competing in the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, West Germany.

An intricate point system left Ms. Armstrong as only an alternate on the U. S. women's foil squad, as she won four matches and lost just two in the finals at Bentley College in Boston, Mass.

Sheila, a member of the West End Fencing club, will now attend the U. S. fencing camp in New York for the first three weeks in August.

Since she is the No. 1 alternate, Ms. Armstrong could make the trip to Munich should one of the other members of the five-women team (only four are allowed to compete in the Olympics) suffer an injury or be unable to attend.

Also representing the West End Fencing club was Alisa Brown, who studied fencing for two months in Hungary and another month in France and Maxine Mitchell, Ms. Brown advanced to the quarterfinals of the women's foil tournament, while Ms. Mitchell, a 12-time national champion and Olympic veteran, lost out by one point in qualifying for the semifinals.

Lisa Burton of Upland also fared well in the women's foil division, also reaching the quarterfinals. Ms. Burton, only 15, also competed in the 19-and-under-class.

In all, the West End Fencing Club took second out of the 18 teams that competed in the Olympic trials. The WE-FC finished first a year ago.

Cardinals Red Hot

The red-hot Claremont Cardinals rolled to their sixth straight win in San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League with a 7-3 victory over the La Puente Warriors at Claremont High.

In the bottom of the third with one out Kessler came up again and hit a fly ball to centerfield which was misplayed by Rinear. Kessler went all the way to second base and scored on Gary Bach's single to left field.

Claremont iced the game in the bottom of the sixth when Bach reached first on the shortstop's error and went to third on Tony Janusz' single to centerfield. Rightfielder

Jim Ryan singled down the leftfield line to score Bach and leftfielder Peter Schoenlaub, with the infield playing close, popped a base hit over the first baseman's head to score Janusz and Ryan to give Claremont a 6-1 lead.

Claremont pitcher Monty Moose had a five-hitter going into the eighth inning before he tired and was relieved by Jim Ayers who threw one pitch to Mike O'Hara which the La Puente first baseman bounced into a double play to end the game.

News Of The Valley

Power On!

CASEY JR.'S LOCOMOTIVE decorated with hundreds of tiny lights, is one of the dozens of things in Disneyland's new summertime addition, the Main Street Electrical Parade.

We Went To Watch The Mouse On The Top

"It's too bad the Pomona Valley didn't get Disneyland," I've often said. "Think of the revenues, the expansion, the boost to the community."

But, though I've lived in this area most of my life, I'd been to Disneyland just once, for my high school graduation six years ago. At that time, I'd been impressed, though Disneyland was hardly the acacia of wonder it is now. I most vividly remember the wicked witch mechanism offering a poisoned apple to gullible Snow White.

Last week, my husband was reading in the paper about the new night time electric parade, the most recent, wondrous thing at the Southland's famous entertainment park. My husband had a few days vacation coming and I, as usual, had nothing more exciting to do than the ironing, so we figured -- why not.

We made reservations at the Disneyland Hotel, and actually got a room. This is quite a at, we were told, anytime during the summer. We arrived in Anaheim in the middle of the week, and were amazed at how it had changed in the past six years. Everything in Anaheim seems bright, shiny and new. Disneyland, of course, is the city's focal point. All along Harbor Blvd, there are new hotels and motels, apartment complexes and restaurants with clever names.

Our room in the Disneyland Hotel was spacious and comfortable. There were little vases of cut tropical flowers on the tables, and the management sent up a small basket of fruit. That night, my husband and I enjoyed the Disneyland fireworks and a glass of champagne. We were feeling very pleased with ourselves for having left the kids at home.

The next day, we slept late then spent the afternoon exploring Anaheim. "Remember when that land was all orange groves?" my husband asked, pointing to an area that now housed a large apartment complex. "Yes," I said, feeling a pinch of nostalgia. "Things have changed almost too much here. I haven't even seen any orange groves." We had dinner back at the hotel, then changed our clothes and went down into Disneyland proper to see the promised electric parade and other promised features...

We were told the parade started at 9 p.m. sharp. As it was five minutes to the hour, we didn't have long to wait.

A teenager dressed as one of the Seven Dwarfs was our guide. He told us he really "dug" working at Disneyland and hoped to make a career out of it.

"Do you think there's much of a future in that?" I asked him. He said there was. He could eventually work his way up from being a dwarf to being a Disney lead character. Later, he might even get in on the production end. "Of course," the young man said, "I'm going to go to college in the meantime, just in case I never make it above the dwarf stage."

As promised, the electric parade started at 9 sharp in the town square. It consisted of many of Walt Disney's famous film characters. There were 11 units in the electric parade, including a 40-foot Sleeping Beauty Dragon unit, added over the fourth of July.

The parade started with the Blue Fairy Princess from Pinocchio. I thought the lighting effects were fantastic; my husband praised the detail work. We were told more than half a million colorful, tiny lights had been used to create the images shown in the procession.

Our dwarf told us the bulbs are connected by 10 miles of electrical wire. The units are battery powered and measure up to 14 feet in height and 75 feet in length.

Marching through a darkened Disneyland along with the light images, are 114 to 120 human participants. The teenage-Disney-dwarf told us the music we heard was all recorded and synchronized with the human parade marchers' movements. The music came from the electrically lighted floats... or someplace behind them, but not from loudspeakers. "Loudspeakers tend to blare," said our guide. "We want to preserve that aura of magic and fantasy. We want it to seem as if the music just came from nowhere."

A popular light float, judging, at least, by the applause, is the Casey Jr. train, driven by Goofy. The train shows Micky and Minnie Mouse being pulled aboard the world's largest bass drum. My husband said his favorite Disney character was always Dumbo. "I have slightly large ears myself," he told our dwarf. "When I was younger, I guess I overreacted. Anyway, I always identified with Dumbo."

My husband got his chance to feel as much sympathy for the little elephant as he wished, though, Dumbo, since his circus days, has made good. The Dumbo unit had 12 balloon carriers, a giraffe, a camel, a seal, a circus trainer, a huge hippo pulling a circus wagon, Dumbo -- our hero -- and two other elephants on it.

"Well," I said, "When I was young, I always identified with Cinderella."

"Not Snow White?" my husband teased.

"No," I said. "When I was young, I never could see sleeping for a couple years. However now, with the kids, I sometimes wish I could."

"Why did you identify with Cinderella?" the guide asked me. "Aside from the fact that story made up my first coloring book," I told him, "I guess I always wanted a pair of glass slippers."

"Rather impractical," said my husband.

"Yes, but nobody else would have a pair like them."

My husband and the guide laughed, but they had to agree with me on that.

The Cinderella unit had an enormous lighted canopy, 18 or 20 dancers, a fountain, a pumpkin coach, the fairy godmother and a coachman.

"Local girl makes good," I whispered to my husband.

The Alice in Wonderland unit was truly beautiful. It had six butterflies, a fountain, Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum and, of course, Alice herself.

Then there was the Winnie the Pooh for President feature with three glittering drums with rockets and stars, the American flag and a fireworks float. "The Democrats and the Republicans can't begin to compete with this," my husband said. The show went on, ending finally in Fantasyland. By this point, that's where I was... back in my childhood of harmless but friendly dragons, elves who could rob the cookie jar for you, handsome princes who always saved beautiful damsels from distress and rainbows that always yielded a pot of gold.

Holding hands, my husband and I made the rest of the rounds of Disneyland. Music played and we tried to remember favorite passages from children's books.

"It's 'twas gimble," I insisted. "It's 'twas gimble and the slithy toves--" "No," my husband insisted. "It's 'twas brillig. Brillig, woman! Learn your Lewis Carroll."

By this time, I was laughing, no, giggling. I had a sudden urge to eat some cotton candy. I was 16 years old again and loving it.

We slept late again the next day. I had some beautiful dreams and was annoyed with the sun for jolting me out of my fantasies.

Anaheim, stark and glossy in the sunlight can put a few dents in mental fantasies. We went back to Disneyland, but it was impossible to capture that same feeling of almost childish merriment we'd had the night before.

The next day, we started worrying about the kids. My husband said it would be a good idea if he mowed the lawn, and I remembered all that ironing.

We checked out of the Disneyland Hotel and headed for home. As we drove past Disneyland, the famed monorail train was just starting on its journey around the outer wall. We took a last look at Anaheim, its new buildings and few patches of green. Then we turned onto the freeway.

I fell asleep in the car. For some reason I had a dream about the wicked old witch who tempted Snow White with the poisoned apple.

We got home about 45 minutes later. My husband picked up the kids at his mother's. For once, they seemed happy to see us and wanted to know everything at once about Disneyland.

I told them about the Cinderella and Alice in Wonderland units. These had been my favorites.

My husband gave the kids the gifts we'd brought back for them. Appeased, they finally went out into the yard to play.

My husband and I decided to split a beer, so got out two glasses, and went outside and sat down on the porch swing.

"You still think the Pomona Valley needs Disneyland?" my husband asked. "I'll admit, that was an exciting place, and it was fun going there for a couple days. But living around all that, I don't know."

I nodded and took a sip of my beer. I looked around me--at our old frame house, the yard which blends into an orchard, the kids playing out in the grass with their new toys.

"I suppose Disneyland has done a lot for Anaheim economically," I said. "The people who live there probably are thankful for its being there."

"Maybe," my husband said. "Still--"

I looked up at him and smiled. I was happy to be home.

"'Twas brillig," I said.

Local Transportation Funds Claim ($44,565,000) Filed

A claim for local transportation funds in the amount of $44,565,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973, is being filed with the Southern California Association of Governments by the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

The money will come from sales tax receipts as a result of the extension of the general sales tax to gasoline sales, which began July 1.

The claim is $6,565,000 greater than the projected claim incorporated into the District's recently adopted fiscal year 1973 budget.

"It now appears that more tax will be collected than was previously estimated, due to improved business conditions," said Thomas G. Neusom, district vice president.

A major effect of the increased claim, Neusom said, will be the set aside of $12 million for rapid transit development in 1973 rather than the $7 - 1/2 million previously budgeted.

The District's technical grant application to aid in the selection of a corridor, or corridors, for initial construction was recently approved by the U.S. Department of Transportation. The study is required before DOT will consider the award of a grant for engineering and construction of a system.

Some $8,405,000 of the claim will be used by the District as local matching funds for a bus system capital improvement program, with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration being asked to supply double that amount.

The planned program includes the purchase of 219 new 51-passenger air-conditioned buses to replace worn-out coaches that have been in service for more than 15 years.

"Throughout the area we serve," explained Jack R. Gilstrap, RTD general manager, "customers have requested that we provide air-conditioned buses. Some 441 of our 1,597 buses are now so equipped. We are hopeful of eventually having a complete fleet of such vehicles and this purchase is a step in that direction."

Another capital expenditure would add 20 Mini-buses to the 19 now used by the District in providing a special low-fare circulation system in downtown Los Angeles. Purchase of these buses, Gilstrap said, hinges on the extension of the demonstration Mini-bus program, which is receiving financial support from the City and County of Los Angeles and the Community Redevelopment Agency, and which is due to end in December. The new buses would not necessarily all be used in the downtown service, Gilstrap advised, but might be used in similar demonstrations in other areas.

Other projects under the capital improvements program include the reconstruction or replacement of a number of maintenance and service buildings at various District operating divisions, some of which were severely damaged in the 1971 earthquake.

Debt service will require $3,090,000 of the claim.

The balance -- $21,070,000 -- will be used to make up the deficit in the cost of operating the existing bus service in fiscal year 1973, Gilstrap said.

"Our projected revenues for the period are $51,795,000, and the cost of fuel, tires, wage, and fringe benefits for our operators and mechanics, and similar items is expected to be $72,865,000."

"Normally, the solution would be either to increase fares or reduce service or both," he added. "Fortunately, the use of the sales tax funds made available as the result of passage last year of Senate Bill 325, along with the assistance we anticipate from the Federal government in the form of matching funds for capital expenditures, will allow the District to operate through the year without resorting to either of these negative moves.

"It is important to remember," he said, "that District fares have not increased since 1967, while at the same time, the cost of doing business has risen proportionate to the general inflation of the economy. Particularly significant are the increased costs of wages and salaries which account for more than 75 percent of our operating costs, as they do in all transit organizations.

"Additionally, of course, we recently reduced the basic fare for senior citizens from 20 cents to 10 cents; we provide five cent fares to the blind, and we carry students at reduced rates.

"The District provides approximately 80 percent of all public transportation in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, and San Bernardino Counties," Thousands of non-drivers -- the aged, the young, the handicapped, the poor -- are almost totally dependent on the District for transportation and it is essential that we maintain at least our present level of service -- and our present rates -- as long as possible in order that we might meet their very real needs."

"In addition," Gilstrap said, "there are many areas without service or where service is limited. We hope that through the use of SB 325 funds we can establish new routes and new schedules, on an experimental basis, in some of these areas.

Of the $44,565,000 in the claim $43,916,000 is being requested from funds accumulated in Los Angeles County; $312,000 is being asked from Orange County, $182,000 from San Bernardino County, and $155,000 from Riverside County funds.

"Senate Bill 325 provides that 75 percent of the claimed funds will be used for bus system and rapid transit capital expenditures," Gilstrap explained. "However, this requirement is reduced by the amount of capital grant money received by the District from the Federal government."

'Great Pumpkin'-The Fair Wants You

Frances Flaherty Dies

Ms. Frances F. Flaherty, film maker, author and benefactor of the School of Theology at Claremont, recently died at her farm home in Brattleboro, Vt.

Ms. Flaherty was the widow of the internationally known film maker Robert F. Flaherty. She journeyed and collaborated with him in the making of his major films including the classics "Nanook of the North," "Moana," "Man of Aran" and "Louisiana Story."

In addition to film making and lecturing, Ms. Flaherty was the author of "Elephant Dance" and "Odyssey of a Film Maker," both of which described the making of a Flaherty film.

During the past two years, Ms. Flaherty had participated in the development of a Flaherty film study center at the School of Theology at Claremont. The cooperative project resulted in a comprehensive program at the School of Theology that offers the only seminar by a school in this country on the work of Flaherty.

Flaherty studies has been integrated in the STC Religion and Arts program and is taught in the school's new Seelye G. Mudd Memorial Communications Building, which has advanced film making and communications facilities.

Before her death Ms. Flaherty gave to the School of Theology 50 acres of the Flaherty farm and a studio on it for use as a second STC Flaherty film studies center. The gift included more than 40,000 documents, photographs and recordings related to the life and work of the Flahertys.

Ms. Monica F. Frassetto, Ms. Flaherty's daughter, has been appointed curator of the center by STC President Dr. Gordon E. Michelson.

The School of Theology is now offering a summer workshop at the farm, Dr. W. Jack Coogan, professor of communication arts at STC, is director.

In addition to the farm, Ms. Flaherty gave to the School of Theology her entire interest in royalties from the Flaherty films.

"Robert and Frances Flaherty established the non-fiction film as a major genre and developed a language of film which is completely independent of theatrical models. They also insisted that the function of the film medium is the exploration of the most basic human issues."

Arthur Knight, film critic for the Saturday Review and faculty member of the University of Southern California, credited Ms. Flaherty with perpetuating the work her husband began. "Where most bereaved wives would have inscribed a plaque or donated a scholarship to some worthy institution, Frances Flaherty's memorial, characteristically, was a living thing. On the Flaherty farm, she inaugurated the Flaherty seminars; and for almost twenty summers the Flaherty approach to film making -- that open, inquiring, sensitive feeling out of the creations of God and of man -- has been passed on to an ever-eager new generation of film makers."

Ms. Flaherty, the former Frances Hubbard, was born at Cambridge, Mass. She graduated at Bryn Mawr College in 1905 and married Mr. Flaherty in 1914. Following his death in 1951 she was instrumental in establishing International Film Seminars, Inc. to gain freedom of the independent artist in the use and development of the motion picture medium.

This year's State Fair will bring back a feature long popular with fairs everywhere -- a competitive exhibit of the largest and most unusual agricultural products in California.

"We're looking for the biggest squash and pumpkin, the tallest corn. We want to show fair visitors the biggest fruits and vegetables that California can produce and some of the strange ones that nature sometimes comes up with," said Harrison Cutler, coordinator of this year's huge educational agricultural industries.

The fair will award $50 to the winners in various categories.

Theme of the 1972 show is "California's Agricultural Heritage". A consumer-oriented show encompassing livestock, farm machinery, forestry and agriculture, it is particularly designed to demonstrate to the housewife how she can get the most for her food dollar.

The "California's Agricultural Heritage" Show will run from September 6 through September 13 at Cal Expo, State Fair dates are August 25-September 13.

Anyone interested in entering the agricultural products awards competition should contact Cal Expo's livestock division at P.O. Box 15649, Sacramento 95813; or call 641-2372. Entries will be accepted on the evening of September 5 and the morning of September 6 at the livestock area at Cal Expo in Sacramento.

White Sands Draws Tourists

Down in the southern part of New Mexico, along the bottom of the Tularosa Valley, is one of our most unusual playgrounds: the White Sands National Monument.

The monument, according to the National Automobile Club, is composed of some 140,000 acres set aside in some 500 square miles of rolling white dunes that nature has been piling up in this area through the ages. Headquarters for the monument is located on the north side of U. S. Highway 70, just 15 miles from Alamogordo and 54 miles from La Cruces.

The Park Service has built nine miles of road that take you from the headquarters right into the heart of the dunes. Once you get there, you see great rolling dunes, some 30 to 60 feet high, glistening white like pure sugar or salt and stretching out as far as the eye can see.

Driven by the wind, the dunes are moving slowly

This, however, worries neither the Park Service nor the residents of Alamogordo, for at the present rate of eight inches per year, the dunes should reach that town in about 120,000 years.

The dunes are formed of tiny particles of pure gypsum, the material manufacturers use to make such items as fire-proof walls and plaster of Paris. Nature supplied all this by having her rains and her melting snows wash gypsum down from the surrounding hills and her groundwaters carry gypsum up from below the surface of the valley by capillary action. This process has been going on for countless centuries and is still going on today.

As you might guess, the vegetation in White Sands National Monument isn't exactly tropical. Within the confines of the monument, however, they do have more than 60 species of plants. None of these grow atop the highest dunes, but some of them have "ridden" the smaller dunes by sending down roots that are about 40 feet long. The dunes have passed by many of these plants and left them oddly isolated with their long, long roots.

Animals live here too. While walking over the firm surface of the dunes you can from time to time catch glimpses of jack-rabbits, foxes, white lizards, coyotes, white mice, and badgers.

Airport Convention Draws Delegates

Is there a better place to have a convention of airport tour guides than at an airport? Well, apparently not, according to Ms. Eleanor Schulze, chief airport tour guide at Ontario International Airport. She, along with Ms. Bonnie McCoskey of the OIA tour guide staff, recently returned from the Airport Operators Council International Airport

Tour Guide Seminar held at the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

"It was the first national airport tour guide seminar ever held," said Ms. Schulze, "and I don't think there would have been a better way to keep the spirit of the gathering than having it at a beautiful airport in the heart of the country."

For the reader's information, OIA has been giving tours since 1952, conducted on a random basis until 1962. At that time, Ms. Schulze took over the tour program on a regular two-a-week basis. She has been the chief tour guide ever since.

Over the years, the popularity and interest in OIA tours has increased until now eight tour guides give an average of four tours a day, five days a week. During the 1971-72 school year, 560 tours for 16,200 children and adults were given.

While comparing notes with the 40 other delegates at the seminar, Ms. Schulze and Ms. McCoskey said they were pleased to discover OIA has one of the best airport tour programs in the country.

So Slowly It Went; Now It's Long Gone

The success of plastic, its usefulness, and its inexpensive mass production has created the problem of plastic litter. Few people save plastic objects for reuse; they throw them away instead, and modern countries are festooned with plastic trash. In the United States, Canada, and England, laboratories have been looking for a means to limit the life of certain plastics so that these useful materials don't create a pollution problem after their period of usefulness is completed.

Scientists have tried to create a bio-degradable plastic, one whose elements can be returned to the earth by means of the actions of sunlight, water, bacteria, etc. Basic research in photo-chemistry, the study of the effects of light on atoms and molecules, has provided the knowledge needed to look for a solution, which may be a photo-degradable plastic.

Photo-degradable plastic lids for cold drink cups are the first "disappearing plastic" product to be manufactured in this country, according to an article in "Chemical & Engineering News," the weekly news-magazine of the American Chemical Society. These lids are made of polystyrene which has been mixed with a photo sensitizer material named Sty-Grade.

Sty-Grade is a light-sensitive material which reacts with ultra-violet rays in sunlight, beginning a series of chemical reactions that allow oxidation to break up the long, molecular chains of the plastic. This process reduces the plastic to a fine powder which is then digested by micro-organisms in the air and the soil. The non-toxic, FDA approved substance, Sty-Grade was developed by Dr. Carl E. Swanhelm and Dr. Robert Caldwell and is manufactured by Bio-Degradable Plastics, Inc. of Boise, Idaho.

The disintegration process takes 30 to 90 days to begin. Within a hundred and fifty days, the plastic has broken down to a fine powder which disappears entirely within six to twelve months.

Sunlight or artificial ultraviolet light is needed to initiate or trigger the disintegration which, once begun, needs only oxygen to continue. Thus, a plastic product could be exposed to sunlight and continue to disintegrate in the darkness of a land fill or trash can, although its rate of disintegration would be slowed.

The photo-degrading process is not triggered by ordinary incandescent light, so there is no likelihood that the plastics will disintegrate in use or on the store shelf. It is possible to incorporate a tell-tale color into the material to indicate when the disintegration process has begun.

The next products to be manufactured with Sty-Grade will be the cold-drink cups themselves. Future products will include plates, cutlery, egg cartons, blow-molded polystyrene bottles, and other containers. A degradable low density polyethylene may be offered by the end of this year by the Boise firm.

Chemical research, which developed plastic, worked on the problem of lengthening the life of the first plastics, which were brittle and unstable. Now it has to confront the problem created by its own success--by shortening the life of the latter, more stable plastics. The research which has solved this problem will be useful in solving other problems concerning the stability of plastics, and perhaps problems as yet unforeseen.

IT'S THE LAW

Bless All The Beasts

Because many pet owners leave animals at home in the care of others during vacation periods, the Pomona Valley Humane Society frequently receives calls from well-meaning neighbors stating that pets have been left behind unattended. According to Bruce Richards, executive director of the Humane Society, most of these calls are unjustified. Still, the society always follows up on each call.

In an effort to eliminate many of these unnecessary investigations, the society has inaugurated a "pet surveillance service" for area residents who will be leaving their pets behind in the custody of a friend. If pet owners will phone or mail the society, telling persons in charge who will be caring for their pets in their absence, the society can then inform concerned callers that the animals are being supervised and cared for.

In some cases, where it's impractical to consider taking the family cat or dog along on vacations, it is best to make arrangements at a reliable boarding kennel where trained personnel will care for your pet.

If you plan to take your pet on vacation with you, prepare ahead for the animal's needs. Check with authorities for their specific requirements. You might have to provide a crate and health certificates. Be sure to put a tag on your pet's collar with your name, address and destination. Do not plan on taking your pet bird out of California, due to the State's quarterly quarantine for exotic Newcastle's disease. Pet birds will not be permitted out of the state.

For pets not accustomed to riding in automobiles, don't wait until the first day of your trip to introduce them to car travel. Animals get car sick, just as some people do. If your pet gets sick or is nervous about riding in the car, talk to your veterinarian about medicine to correct the problem.

Don't feed your pet or give him water (unless it is a warm day) for about two hours before you leave on your trip. It is a good idea to take along the food and water dishes your pet uses at home. Use sturdy plastic containers to carry along fresh drinking water for your pet.

Your pet will need exercise while traveling. When you stop for this purpose, be sure to keep him on a leash at all times.

ELNA SPEAKS OUT:

WE INTRODUCED STRETCH STITCHES 20 YEARS AGO. HOW CAN ANYONE ELSE TALK ABOUT "NEW" STRETCH STITCHES? Those "new" stretch stitches may be new to some ... but not to Elna. Elna created the multiple stretch zigzag in 1952. Triple reinforced stretch stitch in 1960. Overlock stitch in 1963. And recently, Elna has added some more stretch stitches. Elna delivers seven different and practical stretch stitches. Not just decorative patterns with reverse stitching action. Then there is no question that "Elna Outstretches Them All!" All this performance is backed by years of experience producing the finest home sewing machines in the world. The name quality and dependability. Come in and test sew on Elna. You'll see for yourself. "Elna Outsews Them All!" Elna o-u-t-s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-s them all.

IT'S SURPRISING

To find the elephant's closest living relative, you'd have to look in the sea. It's the dugong, or sea cow!

On September 28, 1904 a woman was arrested for smoking a cigarette while riding in an open automobile on New York's Fifth Avenue!

FLOWER UNFOLDS -- Petunias will perk-up the midsummer garden -- there are many members of this large family which offer a bounty of color in a multitude of shades, and fascinating flower forms. One of the most famous is the 1972 All-American, Circus, a deep-salmon and white double petunia. It is a free-flowering plant and its compact growth makes it an ideal choice for growing in containers or in a mass planting in a flower bed.

The Payroll Savings Plan is for people who can't save a buck.

Ever notice how your paycheck sort of slips through your fingers before you get around to stashing a little away for the future?

Ever have a dream about a vacation, or a cottage you want, or a college fund you're going to build for your kids... then wake up ten years later just to find out you're no closer to making your dream come true than you were when you first had it?

You're not alone. Everybody has trouble saving a buck these days. And, that's why there's a Payroll Savings Plan. Sign up where you work and an amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Before you can get your hands on it. Before you can spend it.

It won't be too long before you have a nice nest egg built up, a bankroll that's really worth something.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan. It's helped a lot of people... just like you.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Ode to a Garage Sale

*Of all man's creative and noble endeavors and the challenges they entail,
The one I cherish nearest my heart is shopping the neighborhood sale.*

*Such an assortment of goods to behold that it seems to be a mirage.
Some on the patio, some on the porch,
but the good stuff's in the garage.*

*Garage Sales are thick all around us on every day that's sunny,
With people selling things they don't need and making lots of money.*

*I can browse and dicker, putter and talk,
I can shop til my face turns blue.
I may have a purpose or I may have none, but every Garage Sale is new.*

*I may come home with a thimble, or a tractor to do my mowing.
But whether I buy a thing or not,
the fun was in the going.*

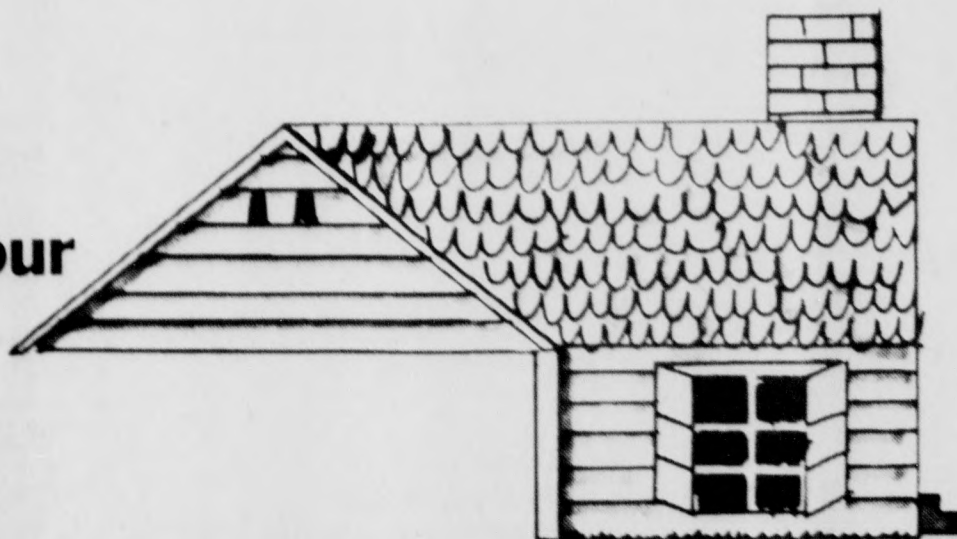

*Some day I'll have a Garage Sale myself.
Right now I'm making the plans.
I'm sorting away all sorts of goodies . . .
anything I get in my hands.*

*There'll be silver spoons, vaudeville tunes, and rocking chairs by the score
TV sets and basketball nets, dresses and clothing galore.*

*Oh, they're not things I really need,
and the sale will be a pleasure.
The people who buy, whatever they buy,
to them it will be a treasure.*

When I finally reach the Pearly Gate and Saint Peter greets me at dawn, He'll say, "Turn right at the Golden Street, there's a Garage Sale going on."

July Best Time To Rent P.O. Box

If you want to rent a post office box, July is the best month of the year in which to apply.

"Many post office box renters release their post office boxes at the end of the year, when they rent them, June 30 is the end of the fiscal year, and the end of the yearly rental period for post office boxes in all post offices," said Charles F. Linck, Ontario postmaster.

Most West End post offices have boxes available, Alta Loma and Coalinga have about 50, Etiwanda more than 80, Montclair about 150 and Chino about 200, due to installation of new boxes.

Upland is full, and the main Ontario branch is full, but the Ontario substation at Fourth St. and Mountain Ave. has quite a few left.

Prices run from 85 cents for three months, or $1.40 a year at Etiwanda, to $2.70 per three months at Ontario for the small boxes.

"Anyone desiring to rent a post office box is encouraged to go to a post office now, as this is the best opportunity during the year to obtain a box. There is usually more of a demand for post office boxes than the Ontario Post Office can possibly supply," Linck concluded.

Heads Named To United Fund

Frank Lesinsky, West End United Fund campaign chairman, announced appointments to the 1972-73 United Fund campaign cabinet at a recent meeting held at Red Hill Country Club.

Lesinsky introduced Ernest Wagner as chairman of the cultivation committee; Robert Grajeda, United Steel Workers of America, chairman of the labor participation committee; Charles West, manager of Abitibi Company, chairman of the pilot campaign committee; Betty McNay, realtor, chairman of the individual gifts division; Duane Ostrom, General Electric plant engineer, chairman of the commerce and industry division;

Walter Tribbey, attorney, chairman of the professional division; Allan Smith, superintendent of Chaffey High School district, chairman of the education division; Dick Price, vice president and manager of Security Pacific Bank, chairman of division 'A'; Loren Stone, cities area manager, Edison Company, chairman of division 'C'; Ms. Robert Jensen, Jensen Contracting, chairman of special women's activities. Lesinsky stated that, while there were still a few cabinet positions to be filled, the caliber of those now enrolled and the enthusiastic acceptance he was receiving, gives every indication of an active and successful campaign.

The division chairmen will select members to fill the necessary positions in their various divisions and will hold orientation meetings prior to the campaign's kickoff, scheduled for September 19.

Awareness Workshop Is Offered

Environmental Awareness Workshop, a four-unit extension course for teachers of science, social science and related fields, will be offered during the fall quarter at Cal-Poly, Pomona, Dr. John O'Hara, Dean of Continuing Education, has announced.

Presented under auspices of World Farm Foundation, a non-profit organization devoted to educating consumers to resource development problems and benefits, the workshop will consist primarily of tours to water, electric power, sewage reclamation and agricultural facilities throughout California.

One feature of the course will be a two-day tour of the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta and the State Water Project. The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California will provide fellowships to successful candidates for the workshop to enable them to take this tour.

"Other than that," said O'Hara, "the only cost for the class is the registration fee of $52.00." Professor Ray Morales is coordinator for Cal-Poly. Participating as speakers will be representatives of World Farm Foundation, University of California, Orange County Sanitation District, Orange County Water District, Southern California Edison Company, Metropolitan Water District, Association State Water Contractors, and California banks.

State Senator Ralph C. Dills (D., 37th Dist., Los Angeles) will be a speaker, as will representatives of various agricultural products, including beef, poultry, dairy, rice, row crops and orchards.

Registration applications and inquiries should be directed to the Office of Continuing Education, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, 91768.

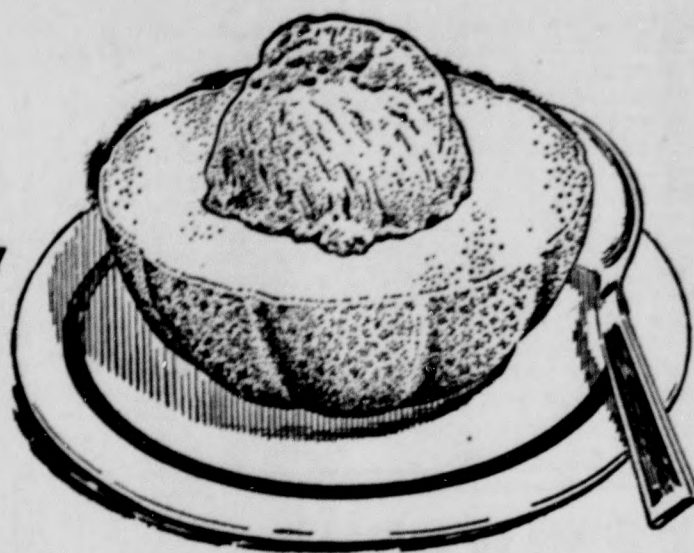

'A Matter Of Survival'

Those who missed seeing "A Matter of Survival" on the "On Campus" program produced by the Independent Colleges of Southern California, in January, may watch it at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, July 30 on KNBC-TV, Channel 4.

"A Matter of Survival" features a discussion by Clyde Eriksen, Associate Professor of Biology and Chairman of the Joint Science Department of Claremont Men's, Pitzer and Scripps Colleges, and Daniel A. Guthrie, Associate Professor of Biology of the Joint Science Department, on the realities of air-pollution, insecticides, over population and other environmental problems. Robert Abernethy acts as host for the 30-minute program.

Both Eriksen and Guthrie are well known for their involvement with ecology.

Eriksen was a member of the City of Claremont's Environmental Resources Task Force and cites examples of how Claremont did something about its environment through banning insecticides, substituting ladybugs for DDT and establishing a reclamation center.

Students Aid Africa

A small group of Claremont Colleges' students has undertaken an ambitious program to aid several million natives in the revolt-torn Portuguese overseas provinces of Angola and Mozambique.

The group of nine students, organized by Charles Pretorius of Claremont, South Africa, has been collecting clothing since June in the first phase of its aid program.

Pretorius, an international student at Claremont Graduate School, said the group already has a garageful of clothing which will be shipped to Africa before September.

The students have been assisted in washing and ironing the clothes by members of the Pomona Valley branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Pretorius said the group plans to send some $2,000 worth of canned and concentrated food in December, to be followed by a shipment of medical supplies in February. The supplies are expected to be provided by the Black Medical Association.

Raising the funds for the shipment is Pretorius' "main worry." The students have collected some $500 so far, but $400 of this will be used to ship the clothing items.

His group is actively seeking contributions to fund the food shipment. Persons wishing to make donations may contact him at the graduate school, 626-8511, ext. 25-34.

Pretorius, who says his home government might not be too happy with his activities, became involved in the situation last May after seeing a documentary film on the Angolan revolt produced by the Liberation Support Movement of Vancouver, B.C.

No Tax Increase Seen

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, meeting in its first session of public budget hearings, has heard a report from the County Administrative Officer indicating that the budget for fiscal 1972-73 will not require a tax rate increase.

Last week the Board of Supervisors instructed the Administrative Office to review the proposed budget and develop a method of maintaining the $3 tax rate without an increase.

The proposed budget totalled $176,516,658, representing an increase of less than one percent. County officials, nonetheless, originally noted an anticipated decrease in revenue from non-property tax sources that it was believed would make it impossible to avoid a tax rate increase.

Following the Supervisors' directive, however, the Administrative Office developed a series of changes in both revenue and expenditures which, when coupled with an unexpected average increase of seven percent in assessed valuation, will make it possible to avoid the tax rate increase.

Prior to presentation of the proposed budget, a total of more than $10 million had already been cut from departmental requests and now, after the most recent review by the Administrative Office, the document is being further evaluated by the Board of Supervisors in a series of public hearings.
